Many New Faces Noted as Legislators Assigned to Their Places
ONE WOMAN MEMBER
Mrs. Ethel Cunningham of Yell County Is Only Woman Member

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—The forty-first General Assembly convened at noon Monday and promptly perfected permanent organizations in both houses. Irving C. Neale, of Sebastian county, was elected Speaker of the House and W. H. Phillips, of Randolph county, chief clerk.

After Lieut. Gov. Lawrence E. Wilson, of Camden, was sworn in as President of the Senate that body elected all permanent officers except erasing clerks.

As soon as this organization was completed both houses adjourned until 10 o'clock Tuesday.

LITTLE ROCK.—(UP)—Upper and lower chamber of the first Arkansas General Assembly were filled Monday with 135 Senators and Representatives, many of whom were making their debut as lawmakers.

Many familiar faces of the 1928 session were missing as the legislators were assigned to the seats they will occupy throughout the 60-day meeting.

On the other hand, there was a goodly number of veterans of other sessions who assumed their places without the show of enthusiasm manifested by the "newcomers."

Robert J. Wilson, of Fayetteville, Washington county, goes the honor of being the oldest member of the Senate, both in age and point of service.

Slayer of Missouri Girl Lynched By Mob Early Monday

Raymond Gunn Taken as Enroute From Jail to Courthouse

CONFESSES SLAYING

Had Been in St. Joseph and Kansas City for Safekeeping

MARYVILLE, Mo., (AP)—Chained to the roof of the rural school building in which he is alleged to have assaulted and murdered Miss Velma Colter, 19-year-old school teacher, Raymond Gunn, negro ex-convict met a horrible death Monday at the hands of a Missouri mob.

Tearing the prisoner away from officers who were removing him from the jail to the courthouse for trial, the mob marched the negro to the spot where the teacher's body had been discovered, and after chaining him to the building poured gasoline over the structure, setting it afire.

Two thousand persons watched the negro plunge to death in the flames as the roof collapsed.

Gunn was calm throughout. There was no attempt to stop the lynching, and the mob met little resistance in taking the negro away from officers.

A detachment of National Guardsmen mobilized to cope with possible mob action early Monday reported for duty at the armory here, awaiting an official request from the sheriff for assistance during mob activities.

Taken From Officers
MARYVILLE, Mo., (AP)—A mob seized Raymond Gunn, negro, charged with the slaying of Miss Velma Colter, a rural school teacher as he was being taken from the jail here to the court house for arraignment.

The slaying occurred the latter part of December, at a rural school building four miles southwest of Maryville. School had been dismissed for the day and Miss Colter had remained at the building to grade some examination papers, when accosted by the negro.

Several days later Gunn was arrested by officers as he and two companions were hunting near the scene of the school building. After several hours grilling by prosecuting attorney Paul Jones, of Maryville, he confessed to the brutal slaying.

He was rushed to St. Joseph for safekeeping. A mob of approximately 600 Neodaway county citizens from practically every town in the county gathered at the jail a few nights later and demanded the jailer to turn Gunn over to them. After several minutes of conference between the leaders of the mob and the officers the mob returned to their homes.

Jonesboro A. & M. Suffers Fire Loss

Administration Building Completely Destroyed in Morning Blaze

JONESBORO.—(P)—The administration building of the Arkansas State Agricultural and Mechanical college near here was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin early Monday morning.

Walter Kays, president of the college, estimated the loss at $175,000. Insurance was carried on the building and equipment for $100,000.

According to firemen, the most probable cause of the fire is believed to have been a defective wire, as the blaze evidently started in the top story. The fire had gained such headway that little could be done by the firemen.

The Jonesboro school is one of the four agricultural and mechanical colleges located in the state, the others being at Russellville, Monticello and Magnolia.

Drouth Cuts Danger of Springtime Floods

WASHINGTON.—(UP)—Last summer's drouth, which proved so disastrous to farmers, will provide some compensation in the form of fewer floods in the larger rivers during 1931, according to M. W. Hayes, Chief of the River and Flood Division of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

The outlook for floods this spring is less than it has been for many years. Subsoil moisture has been depleted by the drouth and this supply must be replenished by a vast amount of water soaking into the ground before there will be enough water in the large rivers to cause floods.

The Mississippi river has a lower water supply now than it has had since 1925. In 1926, after the dry season of 1925 there were no floods of consequence along the Mississippi.

Religion to Help Economic Revival Pastor Declares

Rev. W. A. Bowen Preaches on "The Way Out" at 1st Baptist, Sunday

PARALLEL OF AGES

Business Disaster Has Always followed Breakdown of Morals

The economic situation throughout America at the turn of the year, with its related spiritual and moral factors, was the subject of a sermon at First Baptist church Sunday by the pastor, the Rev. W. A. Bowen. He spoke in part as follows:

"The present economic situation is one fraught with much distress and financial disaster. It is nation-wide and world-wide. We are seeking earnestly for a way out. It is well that we should. It is equally wise to try to find out how we got in. And, in this discussion, we are speaking of the nation as a whole, recognizing that exceptions must be made in individual cases. What may be true of the nation, as such, is not true of each individual.

Since human nature is fundamentally the same in every age, and experiences much the same, it is not surprising that in past history we find some striking parallels to the present. Such conditions are clearly revealed in the writings of Isaiah and Jeremiah. How they were brought about, and the way out, is stated.

Repudiation of God
The first step in was a repudiation of God. Israel turned from allegiance to God to alliance with Egypt, and, as a nation, have not legialized God out of existence, as Russia has. Yet we have set Him aside. This is seen in three instances: The decline of religion in the home. There is but little Bible reading, instruction, worship, or the giving of thanks. The home is no longer a center of worship of religious influence as formerly. Second: The neglect of church attendance. Thousands never attend a religious service. Church attendance is not absolutely essential to worship but is a good indication of worship. We seriously doubt if those who never attend church really worship God anywhere.

Seven children out of ten in America receive no religious instruction of any kind. Eighty per cent of the rural white population of the South attend no religious service, and the record in town and city is not much better. A higher type of preaching is demanded than ever before yet our churches make it next to impossible for one to do his best because of their non-attendance. There is no inspiration in an empty pew. Third: There is the widespread degradation of the Sabbath day. Of late years the day means but little more than a holiday to multitudes. To lose sight and meaning of the Sabbath is to lose our sense of God.

The second step in was the enlightenment of materialism. The development of our natural resources, the expansion of industry, the increase in material wealth, is without parallel in modern times. Should we have done all this? Yes, by all means. Our sin is not that we have made this amazing progress. Our sin is in making materialism an end instead of a means; of making it our master instead of our servant. We have surrendered to its deceptive influence and have cried, "Great is the God of Materialism," and have bowed in worship. We have built on that foundation and are stilling the fined life. We are not growing a soul commensurate with our increase in material progress and power, and if this continues we shall become a menace to the world and to ourselves.

Breakdown of Morals
The third step in was the breakdown of moral responsibility. We hear it everywhere that we are now in one of the lowest moral ebbs of our history. This is seen in business relationships in two instances. The individual is not concerned about his obligations as he once was. He gives them but little thought. There is no shortage of money today but a vast loss of credit. It is also seen in the betrayal of trust by many high in business life. The failure of many business concerns and institutions is due to an honest effort to serve the public, but in other cases it is due to a betrayal of trust and responsibility. We have never known of so many men, prominent in the financial world, committing suicide as are doing now, rather than face their record. And records are coming to light.

Lonoke Hatchery Supplies Many Fish

Work of Enlarging Plant to Continue During Year 1931

LONOKE, Ark., (UP)—The Arkansas Game and Fish Commission will continue work soon on the fish hatchery one-half mile from this city, which supplied over 500,000 fish to state streams within the past year.

The hatchery site covers an area of 226 acres and was purchased by the commission in June, 1928, at the cost of $18,000. Of the half million fish placed in Arkansas waters, 405,000 were large-mouthed bass, 60,000 were bluegills, 4,500 were crappie, 4,000 yellow catfish and 6,000 Rock bass.

The hatchery is located near the geographical center of the state and is one of the largest fish hatcheries in the country. Water for the commission's project is obtained from two wells which formerly supplied water to adjoining rice fields. A pump house, 20 ponds and an aquaria building have been constructed within the last year.

The Game and Fish Commission plans to put 100 more acres under water as an addition to the hatchery during 1931. It is said here recently, it is planned to complete the work on the project by the end of this year, officials said.

At the plants of Buick, Cadillac and Chevrolet several thousand men were recalled for duty early Monday morning.

Boundary Dispute Follows Killing

Nevada and Ouachita County Officers Decide

PRESCOTT, Ark., (UP)—The killing of Jake Heard, a negro lase spring several miles from Stephens, started a controversy over county boundaries. Joe Arthur Edwards, also a negro, is accused of the slaying.

Ouachita and Nevada counties are disclaiming the land where Heard was killed. Edwards was first arrested by Ouachita county officers in connection with the death of Heard, but it was later determined that the killing occurred in Nevada county and the negro was turned over to officers of that county.

Sheriff E. H. Weaver, County Judge R. Q. Wortham and Luther Lavender, former county surveyor visited the spot of the killing and retraced the ground. They determined Heard was killed eight feet over the Ouachita county line and are preparing to ask the Nevada county grand jury to refer the case back to Ouachita. Edwards is under bond from both counties.

For Permanent Relief

A REPORT just issued by the Russell Sage Foundation contains a recommendation in regard to the problems of unemployment and business depressions which ought to be seriously considered in all parts of the country. This report urges strongly that the emergency employment committees set up all over the nation to deal with the present situation do not disband when the emergency is over, but continue in existence to study the general unemployment and devise ways of meeting it.

This report emphasizes also a thing that we tend to lose sight of in a time of emergency like the present; the fact that even in prosperous times we have a good deal of unemployment, due to seasonal, technological and other factors.

Joanna C. Colcord, who prepared the report, remarks:

"Long after factory wheels are again turning, and to the average citizen it seems that things are back to normal, the social agencies will be trying to put together the pieces of human lives which have been shattered by the disaster.
People with health of body and mind impaired, people whose courage and independence have been undermined, people at odds with society, broken and scattered family groups, will be long as a heavy burden resulting from the period of unemployment.

"The need of social agencies for increased public support will be prolonged far past the period of acute distress.
An emergency committee should make its plans with this fact in mind."

And John M. Glenn, general director of the Russell Sage Foundation, writes:

"While no one can tell how long the present depression will continue, we know from rather full records of previous unemployment periods that the ill effects of the present situation on individuals and families will be felt long after the business situation is improved. The sooner a community begins to organize to counteract these ill effects, the more speedy will be its recovery."

"All of this is highly important. Our chief fault in the past has been an eagerness to forget all about depressions once they are past; and in consequence we have never prepared for them in advance, or done the right kind of "follow up" work in their wake. It is to be hoped that this report will get a wide reading.

Hunting An Explorer

NOTHING makes more interesting reading than a story of a mysterious disappearance. And if this disappearance takes place in an unknown and mysterious country, under circumstances that make it practically impossible for the exact facts ever to become known, the story becomes all the better.

That is the reason why newspapers and magazines still recall periodically the story of Colonel Fawcett, the explorer who took his son and a companion into the tangled Matto Grosso region of Brazil nearly six years ago and who has never been seen since.

This story is recalled just now by the news and Commander George M. Dyott will go down to that land this spring and make an extended aerial exploration tour in the very region where Colonel Fawcett vanished. The weird rumor that Colonel Fawcett and his party are still alive, being held captive by a fabled tribe of white Indians who are supposed to dwell in remote mountain fastnesses, gets especial attention because one of Commander Dyott's aims is to hunt for this very tribe.

Commander Dyott is fairly well satisfied that the Fawcett party was murdered by Indians, having been told so by a tribesman on his last visit to the Brazilian interior; but he remarks:

"However, I was once captured by savages and given up for lost, but was fortunate enough to escape and make my way back to civilization. This actual experience compels me to admit there is one chance in a hundred of the colonel's survival, and it is just this one chance that makes me venture once more into the wilderness. The only possible way certainly to ascertain Colonel Fawcett's fate beyond all possibility of doubt is to fly into the very country where he was reported killed. In 1928 it took me four months to trail Colonel Fawcett to the spot where he vanished. This time I shall be able to make it in four and one-half hours of actual flying and in perfect security."

It is to be hoped that Commander Dyott will succeed in getting enough facts to end the puzzle, one way or another.
At any rate, those who like tales of mystery and adventure will be sure to follow his voyage with keen interest.

Best Bank Security

A FINANCIER representing a group of banks which lend money not on property or collateral, but merely on personal character, reports that all of these banks have come through the depression without mishap, emerging safe and strong.

This fact is the more impressive because it concerns bank loans made mostly to wage-earners and small-salaried persons.

It is new proof of the fact once pointed out by J. P.
Morgan the other day, that the best financial security is character.

"Show Your Tickets, Please!"

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—It begins to appear as if President Hoover had at last decided to fight boldly as many persons hoped he would.
At any rate, there has been a stiffening of the presidential backbone and it seems evident enough that Mr. Hoover is anxious both to strike back at his enemies and keep the dominant conservative element in the Republican party lined up behind him.

If one agrees that it is supremely important for a president who is a candidate for renomination and re-election to retain the support of the country's business interests, the political strategy of this boldness immediately becomes clear.

In the past year Mr. Hoover and his party have lost their old ability to promise prosperity and good times to the business man. Meanwhile, the Democratic party has begun very obvious attempt to capture the sympathy and support of those wealthy, powerful interests which have always been such a Republican bulwark. And it is natural enough that the administration should seek to emphasize on business that the man in the White House is just as valuable to it as another would be—such as Senator Dwight Morrow or Owen D.
Young.

Hoover Isn't Losing

On the other hand, Hoover is not losing anything by accentuating his conservatism as against the pro-gressivism of his bitterest political foes. He could hardly alienate the independents and progressives more than he already had. Any damage he might do himself in that respect would be unimportant as compared with the importance of rallying the conservatives, in politics and in industry and finance, to his side.

Thus, one begins to find Hoover courting the wrath of the "radicals" from various angles and lining up more definitely than ever with those who most fear and detest them.

The theory is that Mr. Hoover approved of the original plot of Executive Director Lucas of the Republican National Committee to fight the election of Senator Norris, se-cretely. But that required no especial bravery.

What does indicate that the president is willing to have a real clearance between Republican conservatives and Norris and his followers is his acquiescence in the series of blasts against Norris which have continued to pour out of the national committee headquarters.

That headquarters is directly responsible to the president and the plan to attract conservative support by the attacks on Norris must be either Mr. Hoover's own idea or one which has been sold to him.

That Power Row

Common belief in Washington that responsibility for the discharge of Solicitor Russell and Chief Accountant King of the Federal Power Commission—a direct defy to the progressives bound to receive the approbation of "big business"—lay with President Hoover has also been partly confirmed.

The discharge of Russell and King, so certain to produce loud repercussions, was such a major step in policy that it was inconceivable that it could have been done without consultation with the president.
It is now understood that the administration got word of its desire to George Otis Smith, the commission's new chairman, through Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, formerly chairman of the commission and formerly Smith's boss.

How popular Hoover's increasingly evicted attitude toward the power issue is with business men was indicated in the quite recent referendum taken by the United States Chamber of Commerce. The vote on the proposition that the federal government should always leave the transmission and distribution of power to other agencies was 2617 for and 214 against. In this and other votes, members of the chamber voted overwhelmingly against power theories of the progressive faction.

Progressives Ired

Mr. Hoover's vigorous attack on the proposal in Congress to appropriate federal money to buy food for drought-stricken farmers also carried its strong appeal to conservative groups and attracted fire from the progressives, who generally favor humanitarian legislation.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified crescote that is pleasant to take.
Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs crescote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to crescote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the crescote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Life, after all, is a kindly affair. Why is it stupid and not worth the living? Striving and getting went drive away care.

Try giving.

Scowling and growling will make a man old; Money and fame at the best are beguiling. Don't be suspicious, and selfish and cold.

Try smiling.

Happiness stands like a maid at your gate. Why should you think you will find her by roving? Never was greater mistake than hate: Try loving.—Selected Editor—There's no sense to this story.

Writer—Well, maybe you could put a head on it.
